

Retraction

The use of hydrogen peroxide in the treatment of burn wound infection: a systematic review, and survey of current clinical practice in the United Kingdom [Retraction]

Mihailidis TH. International Journal of Burns and Trauma. 2020;10:38-46.

I hereby regrettably confirm that I as submitting author of this paper (IJBT0102691, entitled 'The Use of Hydrogen Peroxide in the Treatment of Burn Wound Infection: A Systematic Review, and Survey of Current Clinical Practice in the United Kingdom') request that it be retracted from publication. I am in dispute between myself and some previous university colleagues as to data ownership, intellectual property, and authorship and conflicts have arisen amongst this. In order to avoid any professional conflict or escalation, this paper will need to be removed for the reasons stated. I would be most appreciative if you could retract as requested and as per proper academic conduct. This request has already been discussed with the production team via email and I hereby submit a retraction statement as per their instruction.